DETAILED ACTION

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-16 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Astrom et al. (Astrom), U.S. Patent No. 5,752,188.

Regarding claim 1, Astrom discloses a method of controlling installations and/or processes in which parts of an existing mobile communication network are used, comprising an exchange of information taking place between the information flows within the mobile communication network and a dedicated network, and information elements of the standardized signaling protocols of the mobile communication network, wherein the respective information elements are not relayed transparently at suitable interfaces in the mobile communication network, but instead are filtered out of the signaling by a filter method and are transferred to the dedicated network, wherein the information elements coming from the dedicated network are inserted into the signaling (col. 6, lines 10-56).

Regarding claim 2, Astrom discloses the method according to claim 1, wherein the exchange of information takes place by inserting response signals in the form of information elements into the mobile communication signaling (col. 6, lines 10-56).

Regarding claim 3, Astrom discloses the method according to claim 1, wherein the content of at least one of said information elements is defined by a terminal involved in the mobile communication (col. 6, lines 10-56).

Regarding claim 4, Astrom discloses the method according to claim 2, wherein the content of at least one of said information elements is defined by a terminal involved in the mobile communication (col. 6, lines 10-56).

Regarding claims 5-7, Astrom discloses the method according to claims 1, 2 and 3, respectively, wherein the A interface of a GSM or UMTS mobile communication network is used as the interface (col. 1, lines 6-17).

Regarding claims 8-11, Astrom discloses the method according to claims 1, 2, 3 and 4, respectively, wherein the MAP interface of a GSM or UMTS mobile communication network is used as the interface (col. 1, lines 6-17).

Regarding claims 12-16, Elliott discloses the method according to claims 1, 2, 3 and 4, respectively, wherein the information exchanged includes at least a subscriber identification (col. 6, lines 39-50).

Regarding claims 17-22, Astrom discloses the method according to claims 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6, respectively, wherein the information exchanged includes at least location identification (col. 6, lines 11-39).

Regarding claims 23-29, Astrom discloses the method according to claims 1,2,3,4,5,6 and 7, respectively, wherein the exchange of information takes place through a unit of the mobile communication network which has at least the function of a home location register and/or an authentication center (col. 6,lines 11-39).

Regarding claim 30, Astrom discloses an arrangement for controlling installations and/or processes, comprising:

parts of an existing mobile communications network being used for the transmission of the respective data and arrangements are provided for the exchange of information between a dedicated network and elements of the mobile communication network which are participating in the information flow within the mobile communication network, with at least one coupling device being provided to permit an exchange of information between at least one location in the mobile communication network and a location in the dedicated network, wherein said coupling device has devices which can directly or indirectly select information elements from the information flow of the mobile communication network in a controlled manner that conforms to the protocol or it can directly or indirectly insert information elements into the information flow of the mobile communication network in a controlled manner or it can replace corresponding elements of the information flow the mobile communication network (col. 6,lines 10-56).

Regarding claim 31, Astrom discloses the arrangement according to claim 30, wherein as a coupling point of the mobile communication network to the dedicated in the mobile communication network, a unit is provided which has at least the function of a home location register and/or an authentication center (col. 6,lines 11-39).
